Lectures and labs for both beginners and more advanced blood bankers

AVHTM Master Series: Veterinary Blood Banking Basics and Beyond is designed to accommodate all levels of veterinary blood bankers. This 2-day event is specifically geared towards the novice blood banker. Attendees will participate in hands-on live canine and feline donor collection and processing procedures. Topics covered in lecture and wet labs will include canine and feline donor selection and screening recommendations, collection techniques, component processing procedures and various blood typing and crossmatching techniques. Blood product administration and transfusion medicine reviews will round off this education packed weekend. Advanced classes from leaders in the industry will enhance the Master Series and create a well-rounded event for everyone.
